Tricia Doran's Introduction to Story Wars

10 1 3

Chapter 1 by J. Fred Carbine

It was a typical, dreary December day, a week before Christmas. Fred Carbine, the technology integrationst, was deflated by the recent news. It seemed that the school board didn't have the funds to sustain a man, a man who loved his vocation, the students, and all the teachers at Fair Haven High.

However, due to a recent epiphany, Fred knew that education was still his passion. And, although he experienced his first "rift", potentially in a series of many in the years and world of education ahead. He decided that life would go on. Yes, he would have to consider new directions and positions, but, he was also going to "leave with a bang". Helping every student and teacher with technology integration until the day of his departure

And that, is when Fred discovered this Google App for writing in the Classroom. The first person he thought of was Tricia Doran. Tricia, a former teacher of the year at FHUHS, had always proven to make learning fun. Once Fred explored this tool, he knew it was worth showing her, as it could afford creativity from each student, making writing fun!

(Tricia..your turn...would you mind writing the next chapter.? LOL...This is how this interesting tool works...You may have done this as an exercise before, kind of like "MadLibs"...But, because the app is Google based and has the teacher/student sharing capacity with the Chromebook, it might be worth a look. Please let me know, what you think of it, should you have some time after the holiday?)

Chapter 2 by Intellectual

Tricia Doran sighed. Another ex-... it was 'Farmville' and now this. Where would the madness end?
